

The Australasian Journal of Diversional Therapy

ORDER FORM

The Australasian Journal of Diversional Therapy is the official journal of the Diversional Therapy Association of Australia. This is a peer reviewed journal which publishes original work in areas that contribute new knowledge and understanding for improving practice in recreation and leisure services within health and therapeutic contexts. It welcomes in particular manuscripts and articles from authors across the Asia Pacific region.

The purpose of the Journal is to advance our profession through the attraction, dissemination and discussion of high quality original research, theory and better practice together with stimulating opinion and review of issues across our profession.
